

Platform

Detect what is the platform in which the app is running.

This piece of functionality can be useful when only small parts of a component are platform specific.

import { Platform } from 'react-native';
```

API

Static properties

OS: "web"

This value will be "web" when running in a Web browser.

Static methods

select: (config) => any

Takes an object containing Platform.OS values as keys and returns the value for the platform you are currently running on.
