

Web components

Beyond the UDS Base components, there are also a set of components that are web only.

These components are available on the package `@telus-uds/components-web` and are typically built with React rather than React Native and as such only support the web platform (indicated in the documentation with a "web-only" tag).

Web components are mostly "molecules" built using the base components and occasionally "atoms" Atomic design. When used together, they can be used to compose "organisms" and more complex UI patterns.

An example of such a component is `Breadcrumbs`.
